FILING ..... 3

Defendant Number Must Be Entered to File on a Downgraded, Remanded or Dismissed Case ..... 3

Defendant Number Must Be Entered to File on a Downgraded, Remanded or Dismissed Case

A filing on a criminal case is normally prohibited when the case is downgraded, remanded or dismissed. However, there may be mixed dispositions on a case with multiple defendants.

An update has been made to allow for filers to search for cases and submit filings for those defendants on a case for which the defendant-level disposition is not downgraded, remanded or dismissed, regardless of the overall status of the case.

Previously, if the overall status of a case was downgraded, remanded, or dismissed, filing was not allowed on any defendants on the case, even those who were still active and whose charges were not individually disposed of as downgraded, remanded or dismissed.

In order to file on a case with the aforementioned scenario, the defendant number of the defendant with a non-downgraded/remanded/dismissed disposition must be entered. If a search is done on a case which has an overall status of downgraded, remanded or dismissed and the defendant number is not entered, an error message will continue to display.

Pretrial Detention and Revoke Release Motion Types can be Searched by the PROMIS/Gavel Case Number When Filing

Pretrial Detention and Revoke Release motions can now be searched by the PROMIS/Gavel (P/G) case number. Previously, to file a Pretrial Detention or Revoke Release motion, filers had to search by the complaint number (CDR). When these motion types are selected and searched by the P/G case number, the complaint number(s) associated to the selected defendant must be selected (at least one complaint number must be selected to continue filing).

NOTE: If more than one CDR number is associated with a defendant on a P/G case, there will be a separate, individual filing and case jacket entry for each CDR number.

Pretrial Detention Motion Certification Statement in Support of Pretrial Detention Character Limit Increase

The "Statement in Support of Pretrial Detention" section of the Pretrial Detention Certification pop-up box has had its character limit increased from 500 to 3,000 characters. An error message will display if more than 3,000 characters are entered.
