the preservation of documents and electronically stored information.

II. DEFINITIONS

A. As used herein, "Documents, Data, and Tangible Things" shall be interpreted broadly to include electronically stored information ("ESI") on hard drives, USB or thumb drives, databases, computers, handheld devices, floppy disks, CD-ROM, magnetic tape, optical disks, or other devices for digital data storage or transmittal, of writings, records, files, correspondence, reports, memoranda, calendars, diaries, minutes, E-mail, telephone message records or logs, hard drives, removable computer storage media such as tapes, discs and cards, printouts, document image files, Web pages, databases, spreadsheets, books, ledgers, journals, orders, invoices, bills, vouchers, checks statements, worksheets, summaries, compilations, computations, charts, diagrams, powerpoints or other demonstrative media, graphic presentations, drawings, films, charts, digital or chemical process photographs, video, phonographic, tape or digital records and any transcripts thereof, drafts, jottings and notes, studies or drafts of studies or other similar such material. No Party is under an obligation to preserve voicemail or instant messages.

B. As used herein, "Preservation" shall be interpreted to accomplish the goal of maintaining the integrity of potentially relevant documents, data, and tangible things and shall include taking reasonable steps to prevent the partial or full destruction, alteration, shredding, or deletion of such materials. Provided that reasonable steps have otherwise been taken to preserve potentially relevant materials in accordance with this Order, the Parties may continue the practice of rewriting and/or reusing backup tapes and media. Electronic documents and data will be maintained and preserved in their native format, except as authorized by § V below. To the extent a party may desire to change the format of preserved materials other than format changes effected in the normal course of business or operations, such party will consult with other parties before making any change.

C. As used herein the terms, “Yaz” and “Yasmin” and/or “the drug(s)” means Defendants’ oral contraceptive products containing drospirenone and ethinyl estradiol known as Yasmin® and YAZ® (marketed under these names or other names), and the generic equivalent sold by a party other than Defendants under the name Ocella®. Additionally, “the drugs” is further defined to include Defendants’ other products that contain drospirenone (“other DRSP products”) whether on the market currently or in development.

III. Defendants are not obligated to preserve materials relating to any other products except as set forth in paragraph II (C). This Order shall not be construed as any admission or agreement by Defendants that documents or information relating to other DRSP products are a proper subject of discovery. Defendants do not waive and expressly retain all rights to object to discovery relating to other DRSP products. In the event Plaintiffs seek discovery of other DRSP products, Defendants may object and any such objections shall be resolved according to the rules of civil procedure governing the Litigation.
