Warrant to Satisfy Judgment Child Support Frequently Asked Questions and Instructions

What is a Warrant to Satisfy Judgment?

A Warrant to Satisfy Judgment, also known as a Warrant of Satisfaction of Judgment, (“WOS”) is a legal document that, when properly filed with the Clerk of the Superior Court (“Clerk”), will close the judgment on the Superior Court Civil Judgment and Order Docket. The filed WOS serves as proof that the judgment has been fully satisfied and is no longer a lien on the debtor’s property.

Who should use this document?

This document should be used for the satisfaction of a judgment connected to a child support case either closed or currently monitored by Probation. It is the responsibility of the party seeking a WOS to complete this document, obtain all required signatures and pay all filing fees. If the child support judgment amount has been paid in full or otherwise satisfied, any interested party may complete this document, but only the judgment creditor, or the legal representative of the judgment creditor, is authorized to sign the WOS. The debtor does not sign the document. The signature of the judgment creditor, or the legal representative, must be witnessed by a notary public or attorney-at-law.

Who is the creditor?

Creditor: The party in whose favor the child support judgment was entered. The creditor is also known as the plaintiff or obligee. The creditor may also be a state/county agency. The creditor signs the WOS.

Who is the debtor?

Debtor: The person against whom the child support judgment was entered. The debtor is also known as the defendant or obligor. The debtor does not sign the WOS.
