Subject: Proposed Rule Amendments

This comment is addressing the proposed amendment to Rule 4:64-2

This amendment WAS NOT recommended by the committee, so who tried to slip it in? The foreclosure mill attorneys, perhaps? Why don't we just amend the Rule to state:

Proofs; Affidavit or Certification or Bubble Gum Wrapper(Oh, and let's just make it retroactive, too)

This is what's happening in the Office of Foreclosure, anyway, so why not just run with it? No one is paying attention to Plaintiff's proofs in the Office of Foreclosure, so we might as well make it easier to foreclose. Let's let them continue to download an Assignment of Mortgage, off the internet, that clearly states it's an "Unofficial Document" and just stamp it "Certified true copy". Seems all quite silly to me, but so what & who cares, right? Well I care & I'm hopping made. So much so that I am Petitioning the New Jersey Supreme Court for Certification. A Bubble Gum Wrapper and a false Certification cannot be the standard for good proofs, in the State of New Jersey. Why not just flip to a non judicial state, if no one wants to be bothered?

Sincerely,

Sandra Lopaz
