Dear Honorable Judge McVeigh:

I am sending this letter to serve as an objection to the court appearance in the above-referenced matter scheduled for November 1, 2012. Mr. Christian Bailey was deployed to military duty on February 2012 and is not scheduled to return until February 2013. He would not be able to answer or appear and I am requesting that the matter be adjourned until such time as Mr. Bailey can personally appear or answer. In the event Mr. Bailey returns sooner, I will make him fully aware that he should contact your chambers and the other parties such as the attorneys, to continue with this matter. I have attached a copy of his military orders.

Thanking you in advance for your attention in this matter.

Sincerely,

RE: Docket Number F-009564-12

Dear Sir/Madam:

Please be advised that I have been in contact with Wells Fargo since February 2010 regarding a settlement to my loan. I had sent Wells Fargo an offer to purchase real estate signed by the prospective buyer and myself at that time. A copy of this offer was forwarded to Zucker, Goldberg & Ackerman, LLC.

In response I received a lengthy list of required documents that I must forward for Wells Fargo to consider the offer. The requested documents included; financial worksheet for me, my tax returns, my bank statements, etc. At the time I forwarded documentation to them.

Wells Fargo was informed that I looking to sell the property outright, albeit for less than what is owed. I did not receive any counteroffer, just continuous requests for more documentation for myself. I am simply asking Wells Fargo to respond to a settlement offer. They can accept the offer or not. It seems impossible to negotiate with them.

Although I constantly and continuously receive letters and phone calls to settle the matter, each and every time I contact them I am asked for more documents. What more documents do they need, the fact is my personal information does not make any prospective buyer more or less qualified. After all, Wells Fargo tells me how they just want to work with me. I personally met with their representative about a year or so ago.

Thank you for your attention.

Sincerely,

Ben Litton
